John D. Iams
Director
Office of Computer Services
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear Mr. Iams:

Eight months ago we requested that you assist the Navy space effort by operating a computer program which had been designed and programmed for us by a local industrial source. Prior to contacting your group we had no worthwhile solution to the problem of convenient access to a secure facility with available capacity.

At this time it is very gratifying to be able to thank you for the splendid cooperation you have given us and our contractor during the course of our arrangement to date. From the reports I have received, every aspect of the arrangement has worked smoothly - in fact the benefits have been far more than we had anticipated because the staff at your facility has responded positively to our every request.

Please advise your staff that your cooperation has not gone unnoticed by me and is very much appreciated. Our current intentions are to continue to use the program for at least the next six months. Use beyond the late fall of this year will depend upon the status of our several programs although I frankly hope to find application for the computer model regardless of specific program status. I will of course advise you of any changes to our plans but at this time I can only convey again our complete satisfaction with the work to date and again reiterate that we will continue to abide by the agreement that work will be on a not-to-interfere basis and will not compromise security procedures.

Very truly yours,

R. K. GEIGER
